HANOI PROPAGANDA CLAIMS OF CIVILIAN CASUALTIES

FROM U.S. AIR STRIKES AGAINST NORTH VIETNAM

FOREWORD

This report provides a chronological listing of Hanoi propaganda claims of civilian casualties resulting from U.S. air strikes against North Vietnam.

Table I presents the findings from an examination of all available propaganda from the Hanoi radio and the VIETNAM NEWS AGENCY (VNA) for claims of specific numbers of civilian casualties during the period December 1966 through February 1967. During this period, North Vietnamese media publicized a succession of reports by international teams "investigating war crimes" which included casualty figures for various periods since February 1965; only casualties alleged in these reports to have taken place during the December 1966-February 1967 period are included in the table.

To provide some idea of the extent and nature of civilian casualty claims in earlier periods, an examination was also made of protest messages from the Vietnam People's Army (VPA) to the ICC, as reported by VNA, from the inception of the air strikes in February 1965 through November 1966. The results are shown in Table II.

It is difficult to arrive at an accurate total of casualty figures claimed by Hanoi for any given period, since the same figures may appear in different reports without enough specific information to make it possible to identify them definitely as repetitions. Duplication has been avoided to the extent possible in the tables. It will be noted, for example, that North Vietnamese propaganda on the air strikes in the Hanoi area on 2, 13, and 14 December 1966 repeatedly claimed that "more than" 100 civilians were killed or wounded in the three days taken together. Reports containing the 100-plus figure are noted in Table I but are not listed in the tally of casualties, which includes only the specific statistics on killed and wounded that were claimed in more detailed reports on the individual strikes--a total of 152.

Only specific claims of actual numbers of casualties are tabulated. Excluded are the floods of reports from Hanoi about strikes causing "numerous" or "many" civilian casualties; a claim that "more than 10" were killed would be listed, with the figure 10 counted in the tally, but general references to "scores" or "dozens" of casualties are excluded.

The tally of alleged civilian casualties in December 1966 is 294 in January 1967 - 537
in February 1967 - 102

Of the total 933 alleged casualties in the three-month period, 269 were clearly specified as fatalities.

The VPA protests for the period February 1965 through November 1966 claim a total of 1,410 civilian casualties, 369 of them fatalities.
